the argument about the appropriate...

SENATOR CROSBY: One minute.

SENATOR BEUTLER: ...persons to pay for this kind of a regulatory program. So that's my only speech on that today, but I think we're going in a very bad direction if our intention is in every case where there is some kind of problem, we're going...we're going to pay out of General Funds to solve it. Thank you.

SENATOR CROSBY: Thank you, Senator Beutler. Senator Wehrbein.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Yes, Madam President, members of the body, I guess I'm going to jump into this battle, too, a little bit and I, too, don't want Don to take this to heart in terms of my observations at this point. I tend to agree with Senator Beutler, and I guess I'd like to ask Ray, or I mean Government Affairs, you, Senator Schimek, excuse me. I was looking for Senator Janssen.

SENATOR CROSBY: Senator Schimek, will you yield for a question?

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: What...this bothers me, too, in terms of the number of hazardous waste spills and maybe Don could answer this, too, Senator Schimek, but I looked at the opponents of this and I haven't, obviously, haven't had any discussions with anyone on this issue except to notice the amount of hazardous spills that Senator Preister passed out. What are those spills by and large? Could you identify those and maybe Senator Preister could too.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: On that question, I think Senator Preister...

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: All, right, I may come back to you then on another question.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: ...yes, that will be fine.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Senator Preister, what are the 1,800, what are the predominant kinds of spills, agricultural spills?
